DESPERATE CONVICTS.

They Attempt to Blow Up the Michigan State Prison with Dynamite.

JACKSON, Mich., May 9.—A determined attempt was made Monday night to blow up the Michigan State Prison with dynamite, and for the purpose of Deputy Northrup and Guards Harrington and Murphy would have succeeded. Some 150 convicts from the west end block had been attending a literary society. On their return, just before sunset, a large cell, Guard Harrington was killed by one of the convicts. A lively struggle ensued, participated in by many convicts and the three officers. While one of the convicts was struggling with the guard, a large quantity of dynamite was thrown into the cell. The explosion was heard for miles around and the convicts fled in all directions. The guard was killed and the convicts were scattered. The prison was not damaged.

UNITED MINE WORKERS.

Their Society Is Unique Among Labor Organizations.—President John McBride.

The United Mine Workers of America, at whose behest the great coal strike was commenced, is unique among labor organizations in that it includes under one executive head assemblies of Knights of Labor and trade unions. Its president, John McBride, is also master workman of National Trades Assembly 133 of the Knights, which united with the National Protective union in 1890 for the purpose of bringing all organized miners within one jurisdiction, so as to secure unity of action on all questions affecting the entire body of workmen and prevent the clashing of interests that should be identical.

Mr. McBride was chosen chief executive of the united organizations at the start and has held the position ever since. He was formerly an influential member of the National Federation of Miners and has been prominent in miners' organizations ever since 1886, when he was first elected president of the local union in Stark county, O., over which he presided until 1888. He is prominent also in the National Federation of Labor and came very near being elected president of that body last year at Chicago.

Mr. McBride was born in Wayne county, O., in 1834, and removed to Massillon in his childhood. His parents were in humble circumstances, and his educational opportunities were of an extremely limited order. He went to work in the Stark county mines at 9 years of age and became a member of the union while still a mere youth. His election to the presidency of the union was coincident with his taking a seat in the state legislature, where he served two terms in 1888 and 1889—as a representative from Stark county, being prominent on the Democratic side. He served as state commissioner of labor during Governor Campbell's term of office and was the candidate for secretary of state on the Democratic ticket in 1896.

THE BLYTHE MILLIONS.

Florence Blythe Hinckley Inherits a Magnificent Fortune.

Mrs. Florence Blythe Hinckley, who by the decision of the supreme court of California, the highest appellate tribunal of the state, is declared legally entitled to the property of her putative father, Thomas H. Blythe, thereby comes into possession of an estate worth at least $4,000,000, much of it in San Francisco real estate, which is rapidly appreciating in value. This property, though not particularly well improved, is returning a steady income of about $150,000 a year, and by judicious improvement can easily be made to yield four times that sum. There are also thousands of acres of land belonging to the estate in southern California, near the city of San Diego, and other thousands of acres in New Mexico and Arizona, besides a domain of magnificent extent in old Mexico.

FLORENCE BLYTHE HINCKLEY.

The legal battle for the possession of Blythe's property began in 1886. It was very much involved because of the pangs which Blythe took to conceal his antecedents and history. There were nearly a hundred claimants besides Florence Blythe, who was alleged to be the natural daughter of Blythe and his legal heir. The evidence showed that Blythe's proper name was Williams, and that he was born in Wales. He left home at 16, drifted to California and accumulated wealth. He died suddenly in San Francisco in 1883, leaving no will.

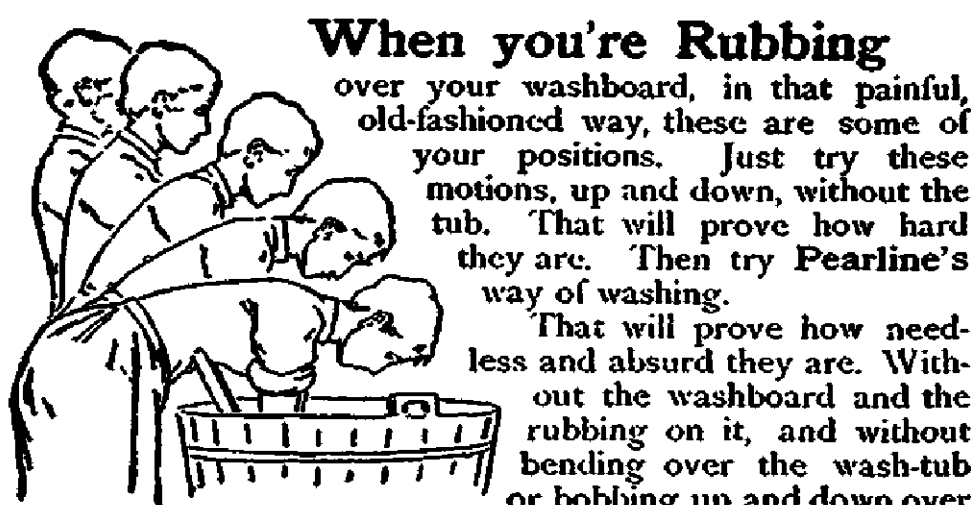

In February, 1887, while in London, Blythe contracted an intimacy with a girl of 20, Julia Perry. Blythe was then 50 years old. Florence was born Dec. 18 of that year. Blythe provided for the child and gave to her mother, Miss Perry, his true name and address before returning to America. In 1876 Julia Perry married a man named Ashcroft, whose child some of the claimants alleged Florence to be. Florence was taken to San Francisco immediately after Blythe's death. Her striking resemblance to her father, however, made Blythe's intimate friends favor her claims. Miss Blythe was married in 1892 to Frederick M. Hinckley, a young man in the insurance business in San Francisco. They reside in Oakland and have a beautiful country place at San Rafael.

General Rufus Putnam's Home.

The Society of Antiquity of Worcester, Mass., is taking steps to secure the preservation of the General Rufus Putnam home in Rutland as a memorial of that distinguished Revolutionary leader.

When you're Rubbing over your washboard, in that painful, old-fashioned way, these are some of your positions. Just try these motions, up and down, without the tub. That will prove how hard they are. Then try Pearline's way of washing. That will prove how needless and absurd they are. Without the washboard and the rubbing on it, and without bending over the wash-tub or bobbing up and down over it—you save the wear to your clothes and the work for your back. That's Pearline's way. Directions on every package.

Send it Back. Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

You Should See Them!

There is some author, man or woman, whose books you read, whose manner of thought and expression suit you, whom you would like very much to meet personally. You would like to know

How He or She Looks,

And what the life record has been of one who has pleased you so well. All people cannot meet their favorite authors, their heroes of the political field or those whose lives have interested them in any way, but all feel a keen satisfaction of gazing upon the very features of those who have so interested them and of reading just what they did and what they had accomplished in life. You know of numerous authors and you wonder how old they are, how they look and what the prospects are as to whether or not they will produce more work to please you. You believe in or are opposed to the various men in politics, and of them you wonder the same thing.

YOU WOULD LIKE TO SEE THEM.

You would like to learn all about them. The remarkable work,

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

Will gratify your desires as nearly as may be. It consists of 16 parts, one of which is issued weekly, and each part contains 16 pages, while upon each page is a magnificent portrait, reproduced from a recent photograph, 10x14 inches in dimensions, of some notable person. Beneath the photograph, printed in clear type, is

The Story, Well Told,

Of that person's life up to the present time, just what he or she has done and how the position now occupied was attained. Bound together, these 16 parts will make a volume of 256 pages, containing the splendid portraits and the history of 256 prominent Americans now living, those whom you read about daily in the newspapers, those who are doing things. This book can be procured only through the Argus and Mercury. It is necessary to cut out one coupon and send it to the office, accompanied with 10 cents, to receive in return one of the parts, something that would not cost less than $1 or $2 at the price not long ago prevailing for a work of such magnitude and quality. ## A NEW SHAKESPEARE.

Chicago Is Proud of the Statue Recently Unveiled in Lincoln Park.

Chicago is very proud of her new statue of Shakespeare, which was unveiled in Lincoln park the other day, and Chicago's pride is justifiable, for she has far and away the best of the many statues erected to the man who has done more than all others combined to make the English language worthy of preservation and study. The statue is the work of William Ordway Partridge, the Boston sculptor. It comes to Chicago through a bequest of $10,000 left for the purpose by the late Samuel Johnston, a wealthy citizen, who established a claim to grateful remembrance in the Lake City by other substantial bequests, notably one of $50,000 to St. Luke's hospital and one of $25,000 to the half orphan asylum.

Mr. Partridge has represented the poet in an attitude of studious contemplation, as though he were musing in garden, a thought which the position of the statue in Lincoln park renders peculiarly happy and appropriate. The figure is of heroic mold, about half again as large as life, and its attitude is the embodiment of easy grace. The poet sits carelessly in a richly carved chair, his right arm thrown over its back, a small book clasped lightly in his right hand. The right leg is extended, while the left foot is drawn in toward the chair. The left hand lies easily on the left knee. On the ground at the poet's left lie a few ponderous volumes, neglected for the moment. A large cloak hangs over the back of the chair and completes the graceful lines of the statue.

The sculptor devoted three years of hard work and study to the completion of the statue and made it a labor of love. He visited England and spent a great deal of time at Stratford and in London studying all the famous portraits of Shakespeare and leaving nothing undone that might contribute an idea of what the poet looked like and what manner of man he was. Of 137 pictures which he examined, he says he put faith in only three—the Dreshout effigy, the death mask and the Dreshout picture. As a result he has given his Shakespeare a countenance of singular nobility and beauty such as any lover of the bard must be glad to believe he in reality possessed.

THE PORTABLE VILLAGE LIBRARY

A Novel Institution That Is Very Popular in England.

A novel and unique educational propaganda has been started by the English National Liberal club in its village library system, the plan of which facilitates the circulation of good books throughout the kingdom in places where books are usually scarce and hard to get. What is called a village library is a select assortment of books packed securely on shelves in a stout canvas covered, iron bound, padded box. Each box contains a catalogue and a number of Liberal leaflets for free distribution.

The boxes are all packed in London and sent to the secretary of the local Liberal association or some other responsible person, who lends the books out for as long a time as may be necessary under such rules as he may see fit to impose. No charge is made by the National Liberal club for the loan of the library, but the village librarian may exact a fee from the borrowers of a halfpenny a volume to recompense him for his trouble.

THE VILLAGE LIBRARY.

The box may be kept three months at each village, and when the books are all returned they are put back in the box and reshipped.

The extent of circulation by this system is enormous. A thousand boxes do not supply the demand. The wear and tear are trifling. Great care is exercised in the selection of books. Only standard works of fact and imagination are admitted. History, criticism, biography, science, economics, social problems, the best fiction and travel make up the greater part of the list, which never descends to the merely sensational. It would not be a bad idea to establish some such system in the United States. It might not pay interest on the money invested perhaps, but public libraries are not expected to do that, and it seems as if this system of sending out books would do a great deal more good than stacking them up on shelves to wait for some one to come along and read them. There are probably 50,000 villages in the United States where the arrival of such a library would be hailed with delight.

Can Live Without Food or Drink.

Prince Constantine Wlaskowsky, the Russian traveler who has just returned home from a three years' exploration of Tibet, asserts that he discovered there the secret possessed by the Buddhist monks and by the higher class of Hindoo fakirs of being able to dispense with food and drink for months at a time.

WAWAYANDA.

A Very Lively Runaway—A Manufacturing Enterprise for Slate Hill.

Correspondence and News

On Monday afternoon, as Mr. Doty, a farm laborer for Augustus Sargeant, Jr., was driving Mr. Sargeant's spirited team of horses attached to a lumber wagon, his hat blew from his head and, when he let go of the reins to catch his hat, the horses, frightened by the flying hat, sprang suddenly and setting beyond the control of the driver started at a furious runaway gait. They wrecked the wagon badly and the team went towards Middletown with only the forward wheels of the wagon attached to them. Persons at work on the road tried to stop the running team by using fence rails and shovels, but without avail. They ran to Middletown and were finally stopped on North street. Upon examination the horses were not perceptibly injured and luckily no vehicles along the road sustained any injury by coming in contact with the runaway.

—One of the most beautiful sights at this season of the year is to behold an orchard of fruit trees in full bloom.

—Eager preparations are now being made to establish a first class type factory in Slate Hill. In a few days something definite will be done by the company enlisted in the affair. Success to the enterprise. In my opinion there is no place offering better facilities for a manufacturing establishment than the site near ex-Supervisor Wood's, where stood the "Spring Brook hat factory," which was burned down in July, 1918.

INSPECTING THRALL HOSPITAL

Visit of the Managers of the Kingston Hospital—Pleasantly Entertained by Middletown Friends.

J. F. R. Clarke, Dr. Jacob Chambers, Col. John McIntee, Michael J. Madden, Surrogate James A. Betts, Charles A. Shultz and John W. Searling, members of the Board of Managers of the Kingston City Hospital, who, as mentioned in the Argus, visited this city, yesterday, for the purpose of inspecting Thrall Hospital and getting points as to the furnishing and management of the hospital, acquired a great deal of valuable information and had a very pleasant time. Mr. Searling, publishes in his paper, the Leader, the following account of the visit:

Upon arriving at Middletown, the visitors were at once taken to the Thrall Hospital by Mr. Bradfield. They were received with the utmost courtesy by Mrs. Charles Clark, the President of the Board of Managers. Mrs. J. P. Bradfield, a member of the Board, and Miss Gertrude L. Farmer, the Superintendent. The hospital was thoroughly inspected from basement to attic and found to be a model institution in every respect. Miss Farmer, who is a skilled nurse and a graduate of Bellevue Hospital, took the utmost pains to explain every detail of the internal workings of the hospital and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Bradfield made many suggestions of great value as to the management of the institution, which is about the same capacity as the City of Kingston Hospital and is equipped in accordance with the requirements of modern ideas.

After the examination of the hospital the Kingstonians were taken back to the splendid station and off a building of the Ontario and Western Railroad, where Superintendent Bradfield had an elaborate lunch prepared for his guests. When this was finished carriages were waiting to take the party to the State Insane Asylum, Mr. Bradfield, Mr. William Vanamee, one of the trustees of the asylum, and Alderman A. E. Luddington, acting as guides. At the asylum Dr. S. H. Talcott welcomed the visitors and personally conducted them through the great institution, which has become one of the most famous establishments for the care of the insane in this country during his seventeen years of service as its superintendent. The asylum elicited the warmest commendation from the visitors. Its absolute cleanliness, its finely appointed rooms and wards and the general efficiency of the care bestowed upon the unfortunate were sources of surprise to those who had never before seen it. The wards, the parlors, the kitchen, the private rooms and the hospital divisions were all exhibited and Dr. Talcott explained at length the methods used for the cure of the insane.

Upon leaving the Asylum, the visitors were driven about the city, which was rejoicing over the opening of its new electric road and the presence of a circus, and were surprised to note the progress of the growing city, showed by the many streets lined with handsome residences and the prosperous business enterprises. They were finally brought back to the Ontario and Western station, which is an exceedingly fine structure, erected last year, and left Middletown at 4:40, reaching here at 7 o'clock.

All of the members of the party were full of praises for the hospitable reception accorded to them by Messrs. Bradfield and Talcott and Vanamee.

REVERSED BY THE GENERAL TERM.

Mr. Childs' Judgment Against the O. & W. Set Aside.

In the action brought by Mrs. Henrietta Childs, of this city, against the Ontario and Western Railroad Company, in which Mrs. Childs recovered a verdict of $400, the General Term of the Supreme Court, sitting in Albany, has this week rendered a decision reversing the judgment and deciding in favor of the company.

Mrs. Childs claimed that she had sustained damages by reason of being compelled to walk from Fair Oak station to Purdy's. The company showed that there were accommodations in the neighborhood where Mrs. Childs could have staid over night and been driven to her destination. The company claimed that she had no right to walk and charge the consequences to the company. It was to have this legal question passed upon that the company appealed, notwithstanding its success in reducing the verdict to a nominal amount.

Wm. Vinand, Esq., argued the case for the company and ex-Senator John J. Lincol, of Kingston, for Mrs. Childs.

A HORSE THIEF'S ESCAPE.

Shot at by an Officer and Pursued by a Force of Citizens, But He Escapes to the Mountains.

On Sunday night last, a colored man, whose name we have been unable to learn, and who was employed by Dr. Cooley, of Montgomery, disappeared, and at the same time a horse, wagon and harness disappeared.

The wagon and harness were afterwards found at Coldenham, but the horse had not been recovered, this morning.

The Montgomery officers finally learned that the negro had gone to Pine Bush, where he had a brother living about half a mile out of the village, and a constable went there, yesterday, and found his man and attempted to arrest him, but the fellow ran up stairs and jumped from a second story window, the constable following and firing four shots from his revolver, but the colored man was faster of foot than his pursuer, and was an adept at dodging bullets and disappeared in Brown's woods, which connect with the Shawangunk forests.

A party of men went out in pursuit of the fugitive, but returned at night without having discovered the slightest trace of the man. It is believed that he is now safe in the mountains, but the whereabouts of the horse is just now interesting Dr. Cooley.

Confirmation Service at Grace Church.

A large congregation was present at the confirmation services in Grace Church, last night. The ones presented for confirmation numbered thirty-five persons, an unusually large proportion of them being adults. Drouth in the Town of Crawford.

The new Excise Board of the town of Crawford entered upon its duties on Monday, and, as a majority of the Board was elected on a no-license platform. No hotel licenses were granted but, to guard against the consequences of total drouth, a druggist's license was issued to Mr. Armstrong, of the Pine Bush drug store. The hotels in that village are shut up and will entertain no one.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN COSHEN.

Goshen Bowlers Win the Fourth Game from Warwick—The Score—Death of John Cody—Bought the Lockwood Cigar Store—Minor Notes.

From our regular correspondent.

—Our Warwick friends came to town, last night, full of hope and determined to win the fourth game in the bowling contest, but the fortunes of war were against them and they went home, even after eating a good supper at the S. Elmo, in a very disappointed frame of mind with two games against them. Each club now has two games of the series to its credit, and each has won its victories on its own alleys. The fifth and decisive game will probably be rolled at Middletown, on neutral ground. The score follows:

Warwick	S	B	T	Goshen	S	B	T
Waldrick, L	3	4	120	Landy	3	4	161
Elyse	3	4	120	Spiegel	3	4	147

Farrell, formerly of the Argus.

IN ANCIENT COSHEN.

Meeting of St. James' Guild—Travelers' Return—Other Local and Personal Notes—A Woman Who Hated to Give Up Her Hu-Band.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

—There will be a meeting of the ladies of St. James' Guild in the chapel, on Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. A full attendance is desired as important business will be discussed.

—Mr. Philip Malcom, of Rutherford, N. J., spent Sunday in Goshen and assisted Rev. Phineas Duryes with the services at St. James' Church.

—Mrs. and Miss Bacon, who have been spending some time in Jacksonville and Washington, are expected to return to their home, in this village, on Saturday, of this week.

—Mrs. Hannah Wallace is visiting friends in Philadelphia, Pa.

—A singular instance of a morbid mind was chronicled in a recent number of a certain exchange, that told of a woman who, having lost her husband, caused his body to be embalmed and seated in the parlor of her house and then proceeded to expend $10,000 for an electrical apparatus that caused the ghastly object to rise and salute her every time she came into the room. What a nightmare it must have become to her after a time, and how, before long she must have begun to avoid entering the place where it was. One can imagine her standing in the doorway, handle in her grasp, trying to summon up courage to turn it. Elgar Allan Poe should have had the incident as a subject for one of his gruesome tales. It would have formed a charming companion piece to "The Black Cat," or "The Tell-Tale Heart."

No wonder she soon married. History does not tell what became of the body of number one. Let us hope that it was given a decent Christian burial and not relegated to some remote apartment like one of Bluebeard's wives, where it would be much worse in a well regulated household than the proverbial skeleton in the cupboard. What a queer morbid corner there is in many human minds. There is scarcely any one so entirely healthy as to be free from some trace of it, but it is not every one who can afford to indulge in a $10,000 fad. No doubt a great many women electrify their husbands, but it is usually done during their lifetimes and consequently must be infinitely more amusing and much less expensive.

WE THOUGHT Our Soda Water Counter large enough, but at times there wasn't enough chair-room and we've again enlarged it, so that those who couldn't find room at it, this week, will have a better chance next time. It is not surprising that our Ice Cream Soda is popular, for it's good, pure Ice Cream—liberal in quantity, served with our pure, home made fruit syrups—and 1/2 only five cents. Why shouldn't it be popular? McMonagle & Rogers, 80 North St.
